WHAT ARE COOKIES ?

Cookies are small text files that the website stores on your computer or mobile device at the moment you visit the site.

Each visit to the website will prompt you to accept or decline cookies. The purpose is to allow the website to retain information about your settings for a certain period, so you do not have to re-enter them while browsing.

WHAT COOKIES DO WE PROCESS?

Technical cookies

Some cookies are necessary for us to ensure the operation of our website. In connection with processing these cookies, your consent to the processing of personal data is not required.

Purpose of processing processing of essential cookies to ensure the functioning of the website legitimate interest pursuant to Art. 6(1) lit. f) GDPR Regulation. The main legitimate interest is to ensure proper and flawless operation of the website.

Legal basis

Category of data subjects	website visitors
Category of personal data	a unique identifier that is part of cookies
Categories of recipients	trusted persons in a contractual relationship with the operator, entities to whom the operator is obliged to provide personal data on the basis of a legal obligation, CMS platform provider
Retention period for personal data	data will be processed for as long as necessary to meet the requirements, i.e., for the duration of the session when browsing the website. Cookie expiry is stated in the 'cookie settings' section.
Transfer of personal data to third countries or international organizations	does not take place

WHAT OTHER COOKIE FILES DO WE PROCESS?

Information about what additional cookies we process is available in the cookie banner settings. The legal basis for processing these cookie files is Art. 6(1)(a) GDPR, which means we will process these cookies provided you give us your freely given consent. You can give consent by clicking in the cookie files panel according to your preferred settings. You can withdraw consent by clicking again in the cookie files panel according to your preference regarding stopping processing of selected cookies. This information obligation directly corresponds to the information stated in the cookie bar located in the footer of the website. The stated cookie bar provides additional information to ensure transparent fulfillment of the information obligation.

RECIPIENTS

If we use cookies other than strictly necessary (especially analytical, statistical or marketing cookies), a third party may be a recipient of personal data, which provides these cookies or processes data through them. Such recipients may include Google Ireland Limited as well as other providers of advertising and analytics services.

If these cookies are active, personal data may be transferred to third countries, especially to the United States of America. Such transfer takes place on the basis of legal mechanisms under Chapter V of the GDPR Regulation, specifically:

- on the basis of an European Commission decision on adequacy (EU-US Data Privacy Framework) if the recipient is listed in the relevant list,
- or through Standard Contractual Clauses (SCC) approved by the European Commission.

HOW CAN YOU MANAGE COOKIES?

Cookies that are set and used on our website can be managed by selecting your preferred settings in the cookie consent panel. If you wish to later adjust your cookie settings, including withdrawing consent, you can do so at any time by clicking the link that allows you to manage cookies and which you will find in the footer of the website, or via your browser. Cookies set based on previous choices will remain stored in the browser; after withdrawal, they will no longer be used. You can view or manually delete these cookies in your browser settings.

Removing cookies from the device

By clearing your browser history in your browser you can remove all cookies stored on your device. In doing so, you may lose some saved information.

Blocking cookies

Most modern browsers can be configured to prevent the storing of all cookies on your device; in that case, some preferences may need to be adjusted manually on each visit to a website. Some services and features may also not function correctly.
